IN ENGLAND Keenes May Send Big

Stable Abroad for Next Season.

There will be another Yankee invasion of the English turf next year. The Messrs, Keene have decided to send all their horses over to the other side. They will be shipped seen after the regular season of racing is over in this Nate or early in the spring. This move to contingent on the consent of one man—James Rowe. If the Messrs, Keene's clever trainer will go the stable will be shipped surely. Foxhall Keene, an excellent horseman, has long desired to have the "white, blue spots" represented in England by a first-class let of thoroughbreds. Ever since the success of Foxhall as a three-year-old—the best horse in England that year, critics claimed—young Keene has been most anxious 15 duplicate his hanceske's successes.
